

I travel the NE. corridor several times a week. I like the XM radio because I can find the traffic info I need in a matter of seconds, without having to search for a local station. then having to wait until they pass the information onto the public, usually a few times each hour. Then don't give traffic information after the rush hour is over. XM could be more precise but at least they are there when I am looking for the information.